Q1:- Read the following passage then answer the questions below :-

A new study into how the Internet is changing the nature of friendship has found that social networking sites like Facebook and Myspace don't help people make more close friends . Although people (especially young people) using these sites claim to have thousands of 'friends', this research suggests that face-to-face contact is usually needed to form genuine relationships .

Many previous studies of friendship have established that the maximum number of people in a standard friendship group is 150, with about five of these regarded as close friends . This new study has found that, in terms of how many people we keep in regular contact with, these figures remain roughly the same for online friends . What's more, the five closest friends of regular Internet users are likely to be people they have actually met . 'To form close friendships, we need to be able to trust the other person,' explains Dr Samuel Holiday, one of the report's co-authors, 'and with people that you only know through the Internet, you can't even be sure they're who they say they are .'
